ELECTED BY THE REPUBLICANS AS THEIR STANDARD BEARER.

Named for Mayor on First Ballot.

STUBBS RE-CHOSEN

POPULAR CITY CLERK LEE NIXON HAD NO OPPOSITION.

or. Wagner, the Chief Opponent of Mr. Trusler-A Platform Setting Forth Cold Facts.

The Republican city convention in Tominson Hall, last night, was one of the most orderly political assemblages ever held in his city, despite the intense enthusiasm that was manifested by the adherents of the two leading candidates for the mayoralty nomination, which was captured by Preston C. Trusler, the man who has done so much as controller of the city to put the city's credit on a high basis. Dr. Theodore A. Wagner, a sterling Republican, to whose aggressiveness much was due in convicting the Democratic tally-sheet forgers some years ago, gave Mr. Trusler a hard race for the nomination, and the result was much in doubt until the roll-call had proceeded at some length. Charles A. Bookwalter developed considerable strength.

The Tomlinson Hall interior is undergoing remodeling, and was not in the best of condition last night for a convention of any sort. The galleries were closed to the spectators, and only the rear of the hall was available to the outsiders. In one portion of the rear of the hall was a huge scaffolding constructed like a natural gas derrick, and on this climbed some of the more enthusiastic outsiders, who could not get a view from the level of the floor. Scaffolding filled the stage, and reduced its seating ca- | Precinct 10 3 pacity. When Chairman Dan M. Ransdell announced that the city committee had been able to rent the hall only on condition that there be no smoking, cigars went to the floor in all parts of the hall, and not a trace of tobacco smoke could be seen comng up from the big crowd. This in itself was a most unusual sight for a political convention. There was no boisterousness, for the conventien was composed almost entirely of business men and men earnestly interested in the welfare and good government of the city. It was 8:10 o'clock when Chairman Harry B. Smith, of the Republican city committee, ounded on the table for order, and in a few minutes the log-rolling in the rear of the rall ceased, and the delegates began to take their seats. The Ninth ward delegation, which gave a solid vote for Mr. Trus-ler, was seated long before the other dele-gates had taken their places, with Lee A. Fulmer's race beaming from the middle of Chairman Smith announced that the candidates for Mayor had agreed upon Dan M. Ransdell for presiding officer of the convention, and this choice had also met the approval of the city committee. There was applause at this announcement, which increased as Mr. Ransdell stepped forward and took charge of the convention. The and took charge of the convention. The sergeant-at-arms was instructed to see that the floor was cleared of all but delegates. The secretaries were announced as follows: J. W. Wharton, W. F. Laycock, John Vilet, Harry Schlotzhauer and Thomas J. Carter. E. E. Stevenson, S. W. Mercer and L. G. Akin, constituting the committee on rules, reported the following, which were adopted:

"First—There shall be no nominating speeches, nor speeches seconding nominations.

"Second-All resolutions shall be submit-

"Third—In the absence of a delegate his proxy can be used only by some person in possession of his credentials, indorsed by the delegate elected, or in possession of the delegate's written proxy. Candidates shall be nominated and balloted for in the following order: (1) Mayor, (2) city clerk, (3) police judge.

The committee on credentials, composed of men selected by the candidates, reported the following as entitled to seats in contested delegations:

Second Precinct, Fifth Ward-John Carson, Silas Gilmer, Ed Harris, Burrell Rus-

Third Precinct, Fifth Ward-P. Willis, Hosteiter, Don Wells, W. W. Thomp-ins, L. Burris. Fourth Precinct, Fifth Ward-Joseph lores, William E. Davis, Thomas Pratt, illiam Reynolds. "I thank you," said Mr. Ransdell, in adfressing the convention, "for the honor you have shown me and for the complimentary manner in which I was chosen. I do not intend to delay the work of the convention by extended remarks. We are here as the representatives of the Republican party to present candidates for the suffrages of the people. While we are here as the representatives of the Republican party, we are also here as the representatives of the people who want a clean, good is how to maintain a municipal government on an honest business plane. People have come to believe that business, rather than political methods, should prevail in the government of a municipality. The party that best carries out this idea will be successful. During the forty or more years the Republican party has had control of the city government the city's reputation and credit have never been impaired. Only once has the credit of Indianapolis been impaired, and that was during one of the brief periods when the Democrats were in power, and then the interest of the city's bonds was allowed to go by default. The succeeding Republican administration restored the city's credit. I hope that this convention's work will be marked by harmony and that its choice of candidates will meet the hearty acquiescence of the people of this city." government. A vital question of the day

Dr. Van Vorhis moved that a committee on credentials be appointed, and this suggestion was adopted. The chairman first selected Dr. Van Vorhis, but he declined. John F. Wallick was named, but a delegate from his ward announced that Mr. Wallick was not present. The other gentlemen chosen were A. M. Fletcher, Dr. Henry Jameson, Lee A. Fulmer, W. T. Brown and George B. Elliott. A delegate from the Thirteenth ward wanted General Harrison on the committee, but he was informed that the ex-President is out of town. These gentlemen retired, and Mr. Ransdell asked the convention if it preferred to wait until the committee reported or to proceed with the business. The convention voiced its choice in a loud "Proceed." Then Mr. Ransdell called for nominations for Mayor. As the roll was called, James M. Leathers, of the Second ward, placed in nomination Dr. Theodore A. Wagner. From the Seventh ward came the name of Gen. R. S. Foster, and when the Eighth was reached, E. C. Rudolph nominated Preston C. Trusler. The Ninth ward, Mr. Trusler's own ward, seconded this nomination, and the Tenth and Thirteenth did likewise. A delegate from the Eighth was presented by the Fourth. E. E. Elevenson, of the Second ward, named M. M. Cummings, and Pirtle Herod, of the leaves ward, nominated Councilman John R. Allen. There were frequent cries for the different candidates, the yells for Trusler own way. Mr. Trusler showed a strong following in the Third, while in the Fourth ward, which includes North Indianapolis and the territory north of Fall creek. Mr. Bookwalter was the strong man. This is the ward in which Mr. Bookwalter lives and includes territory with the development of which Mr. Bookwalter has had much to do. It was not until the Ninth ward was reached that Mr. Trusler's forces began to loom up solidly, showing that the other candidates had made but little inroad into the controller's South-side strength. The the controller's South-side strength. The Ninth cast its solid vote for Mr. Trusler. The Trusler men, during the call of the roll, let their opponents do most of the shouting, holding back their own enthusiasm for the stretch. Their favorite did not need the votes he got in the last two wards called, for he had the necessary number before these wards responded.

Figures That Show Luminously-Mr. Trusler's Brief Remarks. There was a loud cheering from the Trusler delegates during the count of the vote by the secretaries. When the report was ready Chairman Ransdell had no difficulty in securing order, as he read: Gentlemen of the Convention—The first ballot results as follows: Cummings, 1; Taylor, 1; Foster, 6; Allen, 10; Bookwalter, 61; Wagner, 190, and Trusler, 363. Mr. Trusler having receiv—"

Mr. Trusler said: "To have received this honor, the nomination for Mayor of this beautiful city at the hands of a convention made up of delegates selected by Republicans meeting in greater number than licans meeting in greater number than ever before at the primaries, is honor enough for one lifetime. It is an honor that, I assure you, I appreciate, and I will try in my future life to show that I do. In the canvass, if anything has been said that sting, with me the sting is forgotten from this moment. With a united party the Republicans of Indianapolis will again win a great victory. I am certain an administration can be given to the people of this city which will give satisfaction and will cause the people to say, Well done, good and faithful servants, an administration which the people will be anxdone, good and faithful servants, an administration which the people will be anxious to continue in power."

There was again great cheering, and Mr. Trusler left the hall and went to his home for needed rest. There were then calls for Wagner, and, rising from his seat with the same yeomen fealty to the party which always distinguished him, he moved to make the nomination unanimous. There was still so much confusion and cheering that the motion was drowned out without being put to a vote, the chairman's without being put to a vote, the chairman's attention being distracted in the effort to secure sufficient order to make the motion heard. The business of the convention then

The chairman announced that the committee on resolutions was ready to report, and the resolutions were read, as follows:

"The Republican party, having been placed in charge of the public business of the city of Indianapolis as the result of the October election, 1893, upon a platform which pledged it to a vigorous enforcement of the laws, an energetic prosecution of public improvements and an economical and business-like administration of the affairs of the city, believing that the best assurance of efficient administration in the future is affording by performance of promises in the The chairman announced that the comfording by performance of promises in the past, invites attention to the following facts: "When the administration of Mayor Denny began, all efforts of the preceding Democratic administration to refund the maturing debts of the city, bearing excessive interest, had failed; the city was in default in the payment of past due indebtedness, its cash resources were exhausted, with a floating debt unprovided for, while with a floating debt unprovided for, while a large temporary loan was outstanding, whereby the revenues which should have been available to the incoming administration to meet current expenses had been anticipated.

"The making of public improvements had been carried on without encouraging competition, so that the cost thereof to property-owners had been made unnecessarily burdensome. "The laws for the repression of vice and crime and the preservation of good order and morals had been so laxly enforced as to become almost dead letters, and the evils they were intended to restrain and prevent were open and flagrant.

The temporary loan carried throughout the Sullivan administration has been paid, and no new one contracted, and instead of exhausted cash and precinct a precinct and instead of exhausted cash and precinct a precinct and instead of exhausted cash and precinct an anticipated revenues, there is available in the treasury of the city $196,478.78. "The work of public improvements, so vital to the prosperity and health of the city, has been energetically prosecuted; but at largely reduced cost to the property owners. In 1892 and 1893, under Democratic administration, 103 miles of improvements were made or contracted for at a cost of $2,329,157.72. In 1894 and 1895, under Republican administration, 104 miles have been made or contracted for, at a cost of $2,068,566.54, a saving to the property holders of $270,761.18, the result of wider competition, and of better business methods in other respects. "The most rigid economy has been exercised in all departments of the city government, by means of which and the efficient ment, by means of which and the efficient administration of the city's finances, the increased expenditures made necessary by its growth in population and territory, and in paying its temporary loan and other indebtedness, have been effected without increase of taxation; while, by means of the inauguration and enforcement of civil service regulations required by the charter, which had been utterly disregarded by the preceding administration, the efficiency of the public service has been promoted in all its departments.

the public service has been promoted in all its departments.

"For the results thus accomplished, the Republican administration is entitled to and receives our unqualified indorsement, and we pledge ourselves, if continued in charge of city affairs to the continued vigorous and impartial enforcement of all laws; the energetic prosecution of all public improvements, having steadily in view the lowest cost to the property holders, and as soon as the same can be done without making assessments unduly burdensome; to economy in all public expenditures; a continuance of the policy of refunding the bonded debt of the city as it matures at lower rates of interest; no increase, but a reduction, whenever possible, of the principal of the bonded debt; a reduction also, whenever possible, of the principal of the securing of adequate compensation; the securing of adequate compensation from all corporations having special privileges in the use of the streets; the improvement and the extension of the city parks, and generally to a businesslike and efficient administration of public affairs."

CONTEST FOR POLICE JUDGE.

Judge Stubbs Chosen on Third Ballot -Mr. Nixon by Acclamation. The nomination of a candidate for city clerk being next in order, Lee Nixon was nominated by acclamation, no other name being presented. He responded in a brief, gracefully-worded speech.

K. Partlow and Robert E. Smith. This contest proved to be a warm one, requiring three ballots. The first showed Judge Stubbs leading with 294 votes, the others having received votes as follows: Feibleman, 47; Partlow, 40; Taylor, 137; Smith, 113; total 631, and necessary to a choice 316. The second ballot proceeded with only three names voted for, Feibleman's name having been withdrawn. The votes that had been cast for Feible-man and Partlow went mostly to Taylor and Smith, and in addition they gained ten of the votes given to Stubbs on the first ballot. The result was that Stubbs had 284 votes and the other candidates tied with

The third ballot began with a great deal of confusion. Smith was confident that he would show a winning gain, and when the First ward went practically solid for him his friends had an inning of cheering. The roll call, however, showed that Stubbs was roll call, however, showed that Stubbs was particularly strong where Trusler was strong, and that he had the South-side wards almost solid. He gained rapidly, however, at the expense of Taylor, Smith tying his own vote in the second ballot. Judge Stubbs was renominated on the third ballot. "To say that I thank you from the bottom of my heart is but feebly to express my feeling of gratitude. I take this second nomination as an indorsement of my course as judge of the Police Court. I feel sure that when the ballots are counted on the day of election, I will be found not to have received the least number of votes. I thank

THE NOMINEES.

Brief Sketches of the Men Who Will Be Elected This Fall.

P. C. Trusler has been a resident of this city since 1865. He was born at Connersville, Sept. 13, 1852. His first work that brought him to the notice of the public was in 1873, when he was appointed money order clerk in the postoffice. He held this position for eight years and then resigned to become assistant cashler of the Meridian National Bank. He remained in this place for three years and was then appointed receiving teller in Fletcher's bank, which position he held for five years. He was elected to the Council for the first time from the old Twenty-first ward in 1884. He was re-elected a number of times and was in the Council in 1885, 1888, 1889, 1890 and 1891. He was appointed oity controller when Mayor Dearpointed city controller when Mayor Denuy assumed control of the city's affairs two years ago. His record as controller is well known to the Indianapolis public. A large part of the city's debt was refunded at a low rate of interest and the city's credit was placed on a high plane, largely through the unceasing efforts of Mr. Trusler.

Police Judge Stubbs, who was renominated, has made an excellent police judge. Before he was elected to the office he now holds, he was an attorney in a good pracholds, he was an attorney in a good practice. He was an excellent soldier, and he has always been held high as a citizen. He has always been held high as a citizen. He is past sixty years of age, but is still in the prime of his life. His administration of the office of police judge has been free from any scandal whatsoever, and has been marked with consideration of the welfare of the people.

Lee Nixon is the popular young man who was nominated by acclamation two years ago and was again given the honor last night. He was a printer, a member of the Typographical Union, when the election lifted him out of his trade into a public office. He has added to his wide circle of friends, which is even larger than the party and is an element of strength to the ticket. His nomination is a recognition of the influence of organized labor. He is twenty-nine years of age, the youngest clerk the city ever had and is not married.

The Democratic Convention. The Democratic city convention, it was said yesterday, would be held a week from next Saturday. The candidates for Mayor include only the names of Edwin St. George Rogers, John Holtzman and Tom Taggart. The first named is the only avowed candidate, the other two being receptive candidates. It is conceded by the party leaders that the nomination will go to Taggart if he will take it. His large official income and his business profits, together with his liberality in party affairs, make him an attractive candidate to the workers of the Democratic party in this city. For Police Judge the only avowed candidates are Justice of the Peace Johnston and ex-Judge Buskirk. Joseph Bell is also mentioned for the office. The candidates for City Clerk are Smith Myers, August Tamm and Jerry Collins.

PROHIBIT PRIVATE SPRINKLING.

City Attorney Says the Council Has Authority to Do So. City Attorney Scott has written an opinion to the Board of Public Works as to the power of the Common Council to prohibit | To declare it long and loud! the sprinkling of improved streets. The attorney holds that the Council could prohibit sprinkling by property owners if h were found that such sprinkling was a nulsance or injurious to public health. This would be a question for the courts to decide after the enactment of an ordinance. Attorney Scott did not see how the Council could leave it discretionary with the Board of Public Works to say what streets should or should not be sprinkled by property own-
